Interesting Finds - This One Didn't Get Away

While chasing tools in Farm Clearance Sales, I came across a box of tools. The pine box was infested with wood worms, but among its contents were a Stanley 131 Double Sided Block Plane and a few old chisels.

My maximum bid was $50 for the plane and chisels, and I thought of taking home only the plane and chisels and leaving the box in the farm, as it was not worth taking home.

Bidding was competitive and a lady eventually bought the box and its contents for $120. Later, on checking with the auctioneer, I was told that the lady had an antique shop in the Eastern suburbs and should I be interested I could contact her directly.

I did so and luckily she remembered me from the auction. She said that she was only interested in the wooden box and that her neighbour (a builder by trade) had inspected the tools and advised her they were too old and not worth anything (JUNK).

She was extremely happy to part with the plane and chisels for about my original bid at the auction. I thus became the pleased owner of a Stanley 131. The marking on the cutter is "Stanley Rule and Level Co Pat Jan 30 83"

Fig. 42W.—No. 131 Double Ended Block Plane. 8" long.
1 $\frac{1}{8}$ " cutter. Has screw adjustment. Price 10/-.
